NYPD on lookout for man who threw molotov in midtown Manhattan

Police released surveillance video of a man they said threw a molotov cocktail at the feet of two yeshiva students in midtown Manhattan on Friday.

Although NYPD did not identify the attack as a bias crime, police said the department's hate crime task force is investigating the incident.

Authorities said the man on video — who was described as white, approximately 5-foot-9, and weighing approximately 215 pounds — came up to the two men standing in front of West 37th Street near Ninth Avenue at around 1:30 p.m.

That's when the suspect threw the glass bottle full of flammable liquid with a burning rag, shattering it at the two men's feet.

The attacker ran off, heading southbound on Ninth Avenue as the fire grew on the sidewalk.

NYPD reported no injuries after the attack, although police were still looking for the molotov-throwing suspect.

The man was last seen in the released video wearing a dark, long-sleeved jacket, a light-colored shirt, dark pants and a backpack.

Investigators ask that anyone with information in regards to the suspect or incident call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-577-TIPS (8477) or text tips to 274637 (CRIMES) then enter TIP577. CHESTER SORIA

City wants your ideas on bail reform

De Blasio visits Rikers GETTY IMAGES

City Hall released the latest prong in its efforts to limit inequitable impacts of the bail system.

CHESTER SORIA
@chestersoria
chester.soria@metro.us

New York City unveiled its latest step to reform the city's bail system on Tuesday: a panel of experts, advocates and policymakers tasked with working with the court system to reform a process critics argue traps low-level offenders in local jails.

Calling it the "Bail Lab," officials hope the latest program can change how some of the 47,000 New Yorkers detained on bail every year deal with the courts, asking constituents to share their own experiences.

A new website allows New Yorkers to give their own input on bail problems, with answers to be reviewed by the Mayor's Office of Criminal Justice. Its director described bail as a "blunt instrument that can yield inequitable results."

"While it is still with us, we must understand whether money bail is the most effective way to ensure that people return to court without re-offending," Elizabeth Glazer said in a statement, "and we need to develop precise tools to provide judges enough data about risk to make informed decisions."

Whatever results the crowdsourcing brings, tech observer Andrew Rasiej told Metro the collection of New Yorkers' experiences and opinions on a complicated issue is only part of the equation.

"The potential benefits of this effort are numerous," said Rasiej, who co-founded civic tech space Civic Hall, "but the most important are surfacing as many good ideas as possible while increasing public awareness of the problem, which is critically necessary to generate the political will necessary for change."

The mayor's office will also work with judges, prosecutors and defense attorneys to find out what can incentivize defendants to return to court if not bail.

Besides researching bail methods that aren't tied to money, the group will also explore how the process of being bailed out can be sped up and be made more efficient.

Critics of the current bail system point to the case of Kalief Browder, a 22-year-old New Yorker who was jailed at Rikers Island when he was 16 and spent three years behind bars because he could not afford bail.

For months, City Hall has been unveiling a series of reforms to prevent similar situations from repeating, including a City Council-sponsored plan to create a citywide bail fund, as well as a $17.8 million program to supervise 3,000 low-risk defendants.

Walk for a smoother commute

CitiBike rentals in New York City. GETTY IMAGES

Taking transit or cycling is a good start, experts say.

WENDY JOAN
Wendy.Biddlecombe@metro.us

With 8.4 million people, 1.4 million cars and 5.6 million daily straphangers, it doesn't take an expert to tell you that New York City is packed.

But commuters have an important role in reducing congestion as well, experts say.

Traffic congestion costs the city economy about $16 billion a year, according to the Move New York Fair Plan. The campaign, in part, is pushing Albany for a new toll formula, coupled with other transit initiatives to improve travel speeds on city roads and trains, an increase in cab rides and driver fares.

"New York is a big, built-up city that is hundreds of years old, and people don't think of it as changing, but it is changing quicker than you think," said Ryan Russo, New York City Department of Transportation's deputy commissioner for transportation planning and management. "There are jobs in new places, and transportation is changing as well."

Russo said it can just take a little open-mindedness and a new route for a commuter to have a smoother commute. Between the 7 train extension to the West Side, expanded Staten Island ferry service, new Select Bus Service routes, CitiBikes and growing private sector options, commuters set in their ways have options, according to Russo.

"There might be lots of opportunities for someone who has been driving or has a congested or frustrating commute" to save time and money by incorporating mass transit or CitiBike into her commute, Russo said.

"People can get frustrated whether the subway is full or their route to work is congested. That's a great opportunity to turn frustration into something productive," Russo said.

Last week, Council Member Ydanis Rodriguez, who chairs the council's transportation committee, said he'd like to see 400,000 fewer cars on the road by 2030.

Rodriguez told Metro that New Yorkers voluntarily committing to reduce car usage is a "personal contribution" a driver can make (and one he's making himself) to ease congestion and combat climate change.

Rodriguez said a second part of the equation is expanding access to alternative transportation, such as bikes and ferries. Rodriguez introduced a bill Tuesday that would allow New Yorkers in residential building to take their bikes up in elevators.

Right now, 479 residential building owners have either opted-in to a bike access plan program with the DOT or are working to give tenants access to elevators or other options for bike storage, Rodriguez's office said. A 2009 law mandated commercial buildings must give elevator access to bicycles.

Rodriguez added that communications-based train control (CBTC) is the main challenge to getting more subway trains to run and ease congestion.

"We have congestion and poor air quality not because of some malicious outside force but by the seemingly innocent behavior of many New Yorkers acting alone," said Philip Plotch, a political science professor at St. Peter's University and a former MTA planner. "For the sake of our health, our sanity and our economic security, we have to encourage people to walk, bike and take public transportation."

"We have to balance so many different needs," said Anne Klaeyen of the New York Society for Ethical Culture and a public transit advocate.

Amtrak to allow dogs and cats on Northeast trains

Trains, they're not just for hobo dogs anymore.

Amtrak said small dogs and cats can now come along for the ride on its trains from Boston to Virginia.

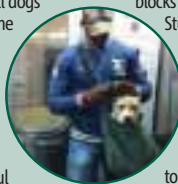

The rail carrier made the announcement following what it said was a successful pilot program in Illinois.

Spots for furry friends, however, are limited. Animals must weigh less than 20 pounds, and there's a limit of five per train. Reservations must be made 30 days in advance, and the animal must be kept in a carrier under the owner's seat.

There's also a fee. It will cost $25 to bring your pet aboard.

Amtrak began letting pets ride the rails in Illinois in 2014. More than 200 animals rode with their owners that year. The rail service said the program did not receive a single complaint.

A woman died Tuesday morning after a tractor-trailer struck and killed her near Bushwick.

Latiesha Ramsey, 37, died blocks away from her Bed-Stuy home on Patchen Avenue as she approached Lafayette Avenue at about 10:22 a.m.

Minutes later, police responding to a 911 call found Ramsey unconscious and unresponsive on the street with severe injuries to her body.

Investigators believe she was crossing the street when the truck hit her and ran her over. The truck then caught her in a rear tire before dragging her down the block.

Paramedics arrived soon after the officers and rushed Ramsey to Woodhull Hospital where doctors pronounced her dead. Authorities said the truck driver, a 49-year-old man, was driving eastbound on Lafayette Avenue when he turned onto Kossuth Place, which is adjacent to the street Ramsey was crossing. NYPD said the driver stayed on the scene, and that no arrests were made as the investigation continues. CHESTER SORIA

Woman killed by tractor-trailer along Bushwick-Bed-Stuy border: NYPD

Flatiron club shooting arrest

Police have a suspect in custody after a young woman was killed and two others were injured in a shooting outside a Flatiron nightclub early Monday morning.

Authorities said on Tuesday afternoon that charges were still pending against the person. CBS New York identified the man in custody as Dalone Jamison, 26, who was arrested Tuesday morning in Brooklyn.

At 4 a.m. Monday, cops responded to a 911 call of several people shot in front of Club Motivo at 915 Broadway, police said. At the scene, they found Walikue Faussett, 24, of the Bronx, with a gunshot wound to the back.

Faussett was transported to Bellevue

Hospital where she was pronounced dead.

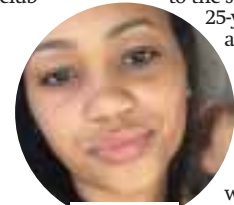

Two other victims, a 30-year-old woman with a gunshot wound to the shoulder and a 25-year-old woman with gunshot wounds to the hip and shoulder, remained in stable condition.

Faussett was not the target, according to CBS. But the suspect reportedly did know the victim and was a DJ at the club. After being kicked out of Motivo following a fight, CBS reported, the shooter then returned with a gun, and was really aiming at the bouncers who kicked him out.

Faussett, a mother of a 3-year-old boy, was out celebrating her birthday, and was trying to catch a cab when she was killed, according to CBS.

Take The Foot Health Checkup

- My toenails are streaked, discolored and thickened.
- The sides of my toenails dig into the skin and hurt.
- I have a large bump behind my big toe (or little toe) which is always red.
- I get an extremely painful "cramp" in the area of my third and fourth toes when wearing shoes.
- My toes aren't straight- they are all cocked-up, bent and hurt.
- I have painful calluses on the ball of my foot which keep building up.
- I have corns on my toes which get thick no matter what shoe size I wear.
- The bottom of my heel hurts all day, but it's worse when I step out of bed in the morning.
- I have cramps in my legs which always happen when I walk the same distance.
- My ankles are swollen most of the time.
- My feet are always dry and scaly - sometimes they itch.
- My feet just hurt all over when I stand or walk a lot.
- I have numbness, burning, infection, persistent pain, skin rash, or open sores.

Four Baltimore cops' statements admissible in Gray death case

Gray, 25, suffered a spinal cord injury after being arrested in April and transported in a police van.

Statements given during an internal police investigation by four Baltimore officers charged in the death of a black man from an injury in police custody were made admissible in court on Tuesday.

Ruling against a defense motion, Baltimore City Circuit Court Judge Barry Williams found that Sgt. Alicia White, one of the six officers charged in the death of Freddie Gray, had spoken without duress to internal investigators probing Gray's death.

"Sgt. White had the opportunity to say no," Williams said during the first day of a two-day pretrial hearing.

Three of those charged — Lt. Brian Rice and Officers Garrett Miller and Edward Nero — also agreed to drop motions to suppress their statements.

Five of the six officers had made statements to police carrying out an internal investigation.

The only one to decline to give a statement, van driver Officer Caesar Goodson, faces the most serious charge: second-degree depravedheart murder. He faces up to 30 years in prison if convicted.

White's attorney, Ivan Bates, had contended that she had not been advised of her rights before being questioned and had been compelled to speak to investigators.

Under questioning by Deputy State's Attorney Janice Bledsoe, Det. Michael Boyd said he had not told White of her rights before questioning her on April 12.

A second investigator, Det. Syreeta Teal, testified that White signed a form waiving the rights when she was questioned a few days later at police headquarters.

The rights include the Miranda warning to remain silent and state law that mandates protections for officers during misconduct investigations.

White and two other officers are charged with manslaughter, assault and misconduct.

The officers are facing individual trials, with starting dates scheduled from Nov. 20 to March. Williams also could hear arguments about what information prosecutors will have to share with the defense.

White and two of the other officers are black, and the remaining three are white.

Flight MH17 downed by Russian-built Buk missile: Dutch report

The report also seemed certain to strengthen calls within the airline industry for a review of how information is shared in conflict zones.

A picture shows a piece of debris of the fuselage at the crash site of Malaysia Airlines Flight MH17 near the village of Hrabove (Grabovo) on July 25, 2014. GETTY IMAGES

"A 9N314M warhead detonated outside the airplane to the left side of the cockpit. This fits the kind of warhead installed in the Buk surface-to-air missile system."

Safety Board head Tjibbe Joustra

Malaysia Airlines Flight 17 was shot down over eastern Ukraine by a Russian-made Buk missile, the Dutch Safety Board concluded on Tuesday in its final report on the crash in July 2014 that killed all 298 people on board, most of them Dutch.

But the long-awaited findings of the board, which was not empowered to address questions of responsibility, did not point the finger at any group or party for launching the missile.

A bitter war was raging in eastern Ukraine between Russian-backed separatists and Ukrainian government forces when the aircraft was downed and, amid a huge international outcry, many Western experts and governments immediately blamed the rebels.

Russia for its part disputes that a Buk may have been used. Deputy Foreign Minister Sergei Ryabkov responded to the report by saying there had been "an obvious attempt to draw a biased conclusion, and carry out political orders," according to Russian news agencies.

The Safety Board report said that simulations of the missile's trajectory showed it came from somewhere in an area covering some 320 kilometers southeast of Grabovo, Ukraine — an area mostly controlled by separatists.

The makers of the Buk said their tests had shown that the aircraft could not have been hit by a missile fired from rebel-controlled territory.

Although the report did not assign blame, it is almost certain to further strain diplomatic ties between the Netherlands and its allies and Russia.

Dutch Prime Minister Mark Rutte urged Russia to cooperate fully with a separate criminal investigation that the Netherlands is leading, with participation from Malaysia, Australia, Ukraine and Belgium.

The White House called the report an "important milestone in the effort to hold accountable those responsible."

“Fraction Of An Inch” Success And Failure With Popular Vital Information All Knee Arthritis Sufferers

By Matt Edgar-Health Writer

Manhattan - In just a moment I'm going to tell you about a very “candid” and somewhat embarrassing moment I had with a doctor.

A moment most doctors would not want you to know about.

As I reveal what happened in that moment - it will become clear to you not only why this doctor has so much success treating knee arthritis pain... but you will also discover a possible way to relieve some or all of your pain, too.

But before I tell you all that - let me ask you this: How would you like to finally have a real medical solution for your knee arthritis pain?

Not some scam sold on an infomercial or the internet. A real medical treatment that has already worked for countless people just like you and is covered by most insurance and medicare?

Can you imagine what it would feel like to be able to eliminate enough of your pain and stiffness so you can get out of bed without pain and go for walks and even do things like play golf or tennis?

How relieved would you be if you felt so much better that you no longer needed to go through total knee replacement surgery and all the grueling rehabilitation?

Sounds Too Good To Be True?

I'm glad we agree. It does sound too good to be true. That's because all patients react differently and get different results from real medical treatments.

That's also why no ethical doctor would promise or guarantee ANY results... for ANY treatment. EVER.

In fact - if you do start hearing over-the-top, exaggerated claims like: “cure for knee arthritis” or “eliminates all pain” or “works for everyone” you should run like heck.

But the fact of the matter is: If you qualify for the treatment you are about to discover, there is a good chance you may be able to relieve some or much of your pain.

I know because thousands of knee arthritis sufferers... just like you... have already found the relief you are looking for.

And even better - this might work for you if your pain is new... or if you have advanced knee arthritis that has made it difficult to even walk.

Here's The Treatment And The Embarrassing Moment

The treatment is called viscosupplementation. If you have not heard of this treatment - I will explain how it might help you in just a moment. If you have heard of it - or even had this treatment without good results - this information is a “must read.”

Here is why: When you have arthritis, one of the things that happens is the lubricating fluid in your joints decreases. This causes joint surfaces to rub, then grind against each other which causes swelling and pain eventually eating way at the cartilage.

Researchers have developed a natural lubricating gel that can be placed in the arthritic knee joint - this cushions and coats the joint allowing it to glide more smoothly which often decreases pain. Sometimes dramatically. Treatment with this special lubricating gel is called

Advanced Knee Arthritis Treatment Offers New Hope For Pain Sufferers In New York City

Nothing Spreads The Word Like Caring Doctors and Results - Knee arthritis sufferers have swarmed the OsteoRelief Center in Manhattan, NYC and Northern New Jersey ever since word got out of their advanced medical procedure for knee arthritis

Viscosupplementation.

This all sounds great - in theory. But there is a BIG problem with this treatment.

Allow Me To Explain...

While doing research on this treatment, I traveled to a medical clinic in New York City. This clinic had an excellent reputation and I got to speak not only with doctors but with several patients who ranted and raved about the results.

Many said they had tried countless other treatments in the past... including viscosupplementation... but nothing worked until they had viscosupplementation at this clinic.

I was skeptical, so I asked one of the doctors why. How could it be possible that the same treatment that did not work when done elsewhere... was getting results when done here?

His response was honest and a little shocking. And the bottom line was...

“All Doctors Are Human And Sometimes They Mess Up”

I discovered that this treatment must be VERY PRECISE. In other words, the doctor must be very accurate and actually get the lubricating fluid precisely into the arthritic joint space - or the treatment will be rendered useless.

Many doctors do not want to admit it - but it is very easy to miss the joint space and alter the treatment results.

In fact, research shows that doctors doing these types of joint procedures without advanced imaging may miss the joint space as much as 30% of the time.

Technology To The Rescue

Thankfully technology is solving this problem. How? It's making doctors much more accurate and this treatment much more effective.

Advanced imaging is now available that allows doctors to actually see directly into the joint space and watch the treatment. Doctors can see, or check, if the lubricating fluid goes directly into the joint space - or misses.

The doctor knows if the applied treatment has been a success... or failure... INSTANTLY.

The Difference Between Knee Arthritis Treatment?

Should Know... That Might Be Keeping You In Pain

Here's something incredible: I was able to watch many procedures actually being performed and I was shocked at how many times the doctor thought he had perfect placement... but the imaging proved him wrong.

I was amazed how only a fraction of an inch would make the difference between success and failure.

The best thing is: When the procedure was not perfect - because of the imaging - the doctor knew instantly and was able to make the slight change necessary and achieve the results they were looking for hitting the targeted painful knee joint.

"Double Confirmation" For Best Results

That's why the doctors at this clinic have taken it one giant step further to give their patients the best. They do not just use one form of confirmation during treatment - they use two in their "double confirmation" process. This is to ensure patients get the best possible results.

It became clear to me that using this advanced imaging and "double confirmation" process just might be why the doctors at this medical clinic get results when others were not.

What Results Can Be Expected?

Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. But many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years... or even permanently cancel it.

Who Is This For?

This treatment is not for everyone - but if you qualify you may be able to relieve some or all of your pain. That's why OsteoRelief has a an innovation for you...

Your Invitation

OsteoRelief Centers offer a limited number of complimentary knee arthritis treatment screenings every month. These screenings are a way for knee arthritis sufferers to get some of their questions answered and see if they are a candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at OsteoRelief Center. If you would like a complimentary screening, just call 800-227-KNEE (5633) and tell the scheduling expert who answers the phone, "I would like a complimentary knee arthritis screening."

The screenings fill up fast every month. If you do not call in time to get one this month, the expert will schedule you for next month.

This screening is no cost and there is no further obligation. The best thing about this screening for so many is being able to breathe a big sigh of relief because you finally have hope to relieve your pain and get your life back

Many of the treatments offered at OsteoRelief Institute are covered by many insurance plans and Medicare.

3 things to know about Leonardo DiCaprio's fiancée, Kelly Rohrbach

It's been 24 hours and the Internet is still processing Leonardo DiCaprio's surprise engagement to 25-year-old Kelly Rohrbach. Who knew he had even narrowed it down to one model? So, who is the woman who got him to commit? A few key facts here:

1. She's a model, obviously. You didn't think DiCaprio would wed a mere mortal, did you? Rohrbach graced Sports

Illustrated's swimsuit issue for the first time this year, winning its Rookie of the Year award. But like DiCaprio, she's an actor, too. Rohrbach studied acting at London's Academy of Music and Dramatic Art and has guest starred on "Two and a Half Men" and "The New Normal." She was also the lead in the CW's "The P.E.T. Files."

2. She has brains as well as beauty. Rohrbach isn't "just another model." (Sorry.) She attended Georgetown University, majoring in theater. After graduation, she moved to L.A. to pursue her acting and modeling dreams.

3. She golfs. DiCaprio is an avid golfer, and so is Rohrbach. She actually was recruited to play Division One Women's Golf in college, so she might even be able to beat him, too. OK, we get it. She has it all.

Do not mess up Anne Hathaway's breakfast order

All that work Anne Hathaway has done to warm up her frosty image gets dumped down the drain just like that, thanks to one deliciously detailed report of her sending back her breakfast four — yes, four! — times. According to a TMZ spy with a great sense for both specifics and comic timing, Oscar-winner Hathaway was at Paramount last week shooting a Japanese commercial when she made what seemed at the time to be a pretty simple breakfast order: a poached egg, a toasted English muffin and some avocado. But the egg was too runny, so she sent it back. Then the muffin was too cold because it had sat there while the second egg was being poached, so she sent it back. Then the second egg was too cold because it had sat there while a new English muffin was toasted so... she sent it back. And then — and then! — everything was fine on the fourth attempt, except by then she'd changed her mind and decided she was more in the mood for a fried egg. So she sent it back. Oh man. Oh man, oh man, oh man. Honestly, I just feel bad for the caterer, who will obviously never poach an egg in this town again.

Daniel Craig would not hang out with James Bond

It looks like Daniel Craig is finally having some fun with this press tour for "Spectre," probably his last outing as James Bond. While sitting down with British talk show host Jonathan Ross for a chat, Craig ruminates on whether he'd want to socialize much with his special agent alter ego. "Would he be someone who you would avoid because he's so emotionally closed?" Ross asks, to which Craig replies, "That would be low down the list. The fact that he kills people three times a week" is a bigger issue. I mean, he has a point.

Lilly Singh still can't believe her face is on a billboard

The YouTube star opens up about taking on touchy subjects and garnering almost 7 million subscribers.

AMANDA VALENTOVIC
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

YouTube vlogger Lilly Singh still hasn't processed her newfound fame, let alone that her picture is plastered on billboards and buses. "It's such an overwhelming feeling, it's kind of hard to take in," the 27-year-old says. "I feel like maybe two weeks from now I'll just be sitting somewhere random and it'll hit me."

Singh's YouTube channel, where she uses the alias ISuperwomanII, has almost 7 million subscribers. She just finished a 30-city world tour of her live show, "A Trip to Unicorn Island," and she has two more shows this year. But she still manages to post a video every Monday and Thursday that aims to make her audience laugh, while still covering the serious topics.

Taking on tough subjects

Negative comments about her Indian heritage in the past make seeing herself on a billboard that much more exciting. "The most special thing about the billboard is the fact that it's so fearlessly multicultural," Singh says.

Singh has been known to talk about subjects like racism and depression in her videos, in a positive way. "When you can laugh at something and have fun watching it, a message is easier to get across," says Singh.

"I tend not to make my content 'Hey, I'm going to talk about racism or depression, now let me tell you why it's wrong.' I don't think that's as effective as intertwining messages with comedy."

Real life, online

To come up with ideas for her videos, Singh draws experience from what's going on in her life. "A lot of my content is genuinely things that happen throughout my day," she says. "I take it and exaggerate it in a way that's funny. My main goal is to make something that people can relate to. If it happened in my day, chances are it happened in someone else's day."

The relatable element also applies to the other huge project she has in the works — the documentary that covers her tour, "A Trip to Unicorn Island."

"It's not just the story of the tour — it's the story of me being thrown in a completely uncomfortable situation of having to learn something I have no idea about," Singh says. "It's this really interesting story of millennials taking charge and learning new things."

The documentary will be released next year. "It's coming out when I say it's perfect," jokes Singh. "But when it comes out, it is going to be the biggest, baddest, most awesome thing."

Lilly Singh has almost 7 million subscribers. A documentary about her life is coming out next year. KELLY NEAL

Lilly Singh's tips for getting started on YouTube

1. Be ready to work hard.

"Don't think it's easy — know it's very hard. Everything I do is for my job, but I love it at the same time."

2. Ignore the trolls.

"You definitely need a thick skin. People are behind a screen and will say whatever they want to say to you."

3. Just do it.

"Starting is the hardest thing. Just start. The longer you wait, the more video is competing against your content."

Rainbow Rowell brings fan fiction alive in 'Carry On'

The best-selling YA author tackles her first full-on fantasy novel.

EMILY LAURENCE
@EmLaurence
emily.laurence@metro.us

Readers of all ages have devoured Rainbow Rowell's books, including "Eleanor & Park," but instead of sticking to what works, Rowell is experimenting with a whole new genre: fantasy. Her latest book, "Carry On," is about a teen named Simon (a character from her book "Fangirl") who has been chosen to fight a battle he seems ill-prepared to wage. Rowell gives us more scoop here.

What sparked the idea to give Simon Snow from "Fangirl" his own book?

When I started writing "Fangirl," writing the Simon Snow bit was a huge experiment for me since it was fan fiction, but I enjoyed writing it. I thought it would be fun to actually write these characters and not just through the lens of other characters.

What goes into creating a successful fantasy world?

To me, what makes it successful is the consistency. That said, if the characters are strong enough and the story is compelling enough, you can take the readers anywhere. When you think really hard about "Harry Potter," there are things that don't make sense, but since the characters are strong, [fans] go with it.

Many people have created fan fiction based on your books. Did that change the way you wrote "Carry On"?

I don't look at any fan fiction at all for that reason. If I'm still working on something, I don't want someone to get in my head. But I do think it's pretty cool and flattering that people are writing fan fiction based on my books.

Why do you think YA is popular with adults as well as teens?

The teen years are an incredibly popular time in our lives and are a vital part of shaping our personalities. ... But it also goes by really quickly, and you don't have time to process it. So it seems natural to me that when you're 25, 35 or 45 to want to go back and think about it.

"Eleanor & Park" is getting turned into a movie. How far along is the process?

I've finished two drafts of the screenplay. But the movie isn't my baby, the book is. My hope is that the studio finds a director who has a great vision and just runs with it.

Winona Ryder sets the record straight

The actress looks back on her early days.

MATT PRIGGE
@mattprigge
matt.prigge@metro.us

Winona Ryder has had her brushes with infamy and trouble, but that doesn't keep her from opening up. When we speak, she's gabby and funny, in part because she's really into her new film "Experimenter," a semi-experimental biopic about Stanley Milgram (played by Peter Sarsgaard), the psychologist who did famous/infamous tests on people's willingness to follow orders, no matter how inhumane they may be. Ryder plays Milgram's devoted wife Sasha, though she's not just a typical movie spouse. It's a chance to work with Sarsgaard and director Michael Almereyda (of the playful Ethan Hawke "Hamlet"), both longtime friends. And it's also nice to, as she puts it, "really mean the stuff you say in these [interviews]."

I know you had a fairly atypical childhood, growing up on a commune in California...

When I say I lived in a commune for four years, people think I was in a cult — and it was not a cult at all. It was seven families in the redwoods in Mendocino. But my parents were definitely on the intellectual side of the hippie movement. They were more sort of observers. They were activists and stuff, but it's interesting because in some sort of unconscious rebellion, I stayed away from a lot of those things. I don't do drugs. Drugs were not encouraged, but my parents did have the thing of, "Don't get them on the street. If you're really curious, please come to us." I think that's a good attitude to have. But I didn't want to.

That's odd, since acid king Timothy Leary was your godfather.

He was very protective. He never let anyone do anything around me. He would take me to baseball games and help me with my homework. He was the opposite of what you'd think Timothy Leary was, around me. But there were a lot of people around then. It's a shame because at the time I didn't know who any of them were. They were just grown-ups. I later found out one of them was John Lennon. I'm like, "What? Why didn't you tell me?" I wish I'd known.

You could have pestered him for Beatles stories. Or, you know, not terrorized his son.

Growing up around that scene, I imagine you were exposed to the stories of and ideas around Stanley Milgram.

I remember the first time I found out about him. It was from the Peter Gabriel song "We Do What We're Told," from the "Us" album. I was driving with my dad, and I was like, "What does this mean?" and he told me. And I'm a big reader. I've read about the banality of evil and about Eichmann, because I lost family in the Holocaust.

What's interesting too is the way "Experimenter" is told.

I've known Michael Almereyda since he was 16. He's the kind of director — and I can tell you this — that actors want to work with because he is one of the very few uncompromising directors out there. He just won't do something if he doesn't want to. He's not the kind that says, "Oh, alright..." And biopics, they're tricky, especially when you're cramming in a couple decades. Michael is so thoughtful and interesting, and what he chose to focus on was so far from what a classic biopic is. I'm nervous to use the word "untraditional" because I also like traditional stuff. But this is so imaginative and thoughtful — when I say "thoughtful," I can't put enough emphasis on that.

GETTY IMAGES

Getting it wrong

It was reported that ages ago you were tired of acting. What brought you back?

I don't really go on the Internet. But my parents do. They don't have Google Alert or anything, but they showed me something in The Guardian. The headline was, "I have no interest." And I don't know where that came from. That was probably in response to some weird question. I will say I have a lot of other interests. I did take some time off in my 30s. I went to law school — well, I wasn't official. I was allowed to sit in on some classes because I was interested in constitutional law. I really consider San Francisco home. It's a very different life than people think of actresses having.

But I still feel very connected and passionate about work. Still, as you get older, it feels like it takes a lot of time. I don't want to spend a lot of time on something I don't like. Even if it's just doing these small movies. Look, this isn't a blockbuster. It's an art film at a time when there really aren't many. I don't know how "Experimenter" is going to do. But it was a joy to work on, and it was challenging, and you were always thinking and reading. I'm really proud to be a part of that. But it's all I've ever known, acting. I don't know if I could do anything else.

Katherine Waterston is staying in the big leagues

The actress was glad to be part of "Steve Jobs," which isn't your typical biography.

MATT PRIGGE
@mattprigge
matt.prigge@metro.us

In the last year, mostly thanks to "Inherent Vice," Katherine Waterston has made the shift from struggling actor to an "it" girl. When we speak, she's in London shooting the "Harry Potter" spinoff "Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them." Right now, she's promoting another major release: "Steve Jobs," the Aaron Sorkin-penned story of the late Apple icon (played by Michael Fassbender) and the frenzied buildup to three of his most significant product launches. Waterston plays Chrisann Brennan, an ex who's justifiably furious with him, as he doesn't want to claim paternity of their young daughter.

The move to major productions must be jarring. How have you dealt with it?

It's not really as much of a shift as I probably imagined when I would be fantasizing about having a proper career. [Laughs] You don't know what you're doing, and it all comes together at the last minute.

Sorkinese seems like it might be daunting.

The only part that was terrifying was when I was auditioning and I thought, "Am I anywhere near good enough to speak these words?" But actually, it's so much scarier to try and make poor writing sound good than it is to play around with really great dialogue. This is just like getting shot out of a cannon. You're supported by such a great structure. There's so much humor and intelligence. And a great rhythm. The writing does so much of your performing for you that you can relax, in a way. I would have thought, "Oh my God, I'll be a ball of nerves. I'll be so paranoid about getting that comma

In "Steve Jobs," out now, Katherine Waterston plays Chrisann Brennan, an ex of the Apple icon who fought for him to recognize the paternity of their daughter. FRANÇOIS DUHAMEL right or did I pause there? Did I cut him off in time?" But he writes the way people think.

This isn't a traditional biopic, so we don't see all of Brennan's history with Jobs. How do you handle suggesting a character's entire history only in fragments?

One thing I was thinking about was, how do I show the audience that this is an old dynamic, this is an old relationship? She's had some of these arguments before. I had to make sure it didn't feel fresh, that it felt like a worn-out relationship. It's so much more a portrait than a biopic. A lot of these biopics make us feel like we really know someone, and that's a dangerous thing to do to the public. Because it's never really true. You see these biopics where one dramatic thing happens after another, and this is why they became the artists they became, because of that one thing. No human I have ever met has ever had that experience — that one moment. They're a little irresponsible and deceptive.

A smile goes a long way

Danny Boyle seems an outside-the-box choice of director, as his films tend to be very heavy on visuals. He's just a really great leader. He kept the energy up on set. That sounds like a dumb thing, but it really makes a difference when you're freaking out about your own performance and trying to rise to the occasion, and you've been working eight, nine hours. He maintained the urgency, and he did that with a smile on his face.

Chicken-apple sausage & 'quick kraut' with Sigmund's pretzels

Special offer for Metro readers!

Visit www.marleyspoon.com and enter METRO30 to get $30 off your first box.

Directions:

1 Prep vegetables.

Preheat oven to 400°F. Trim root from onion. Peel, halve and thinly slice. Halve cabbage through the core and remove core. Thinly slice cabbage. Shred carrots on the large holes of a box grater.

2 Brown sausages. Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a large skillet over medium-high heat. Cook, turning often, until browned all over, about 5 minutes. Transfer to a plate.

3 Cook onions and cabbage. Add onion and sauté until softened, about 4 minutes. Add caraway seeds, cabbage, vinegar,

1 cup water and 2 teaspoons salt. Bring to a simmer, cover and cook, stirring occasionally, until cabbage is wilted and tender, 10–12 minutes.

4 Finish cabbage. Add carrots to cabbage mixture along with ½ teaspoon sugar and toss gently to combine. Nestle sausages into cabbage mixture, cover, and cook until carrots are tender and sausages are warm, about 5 minutes.

5 Warm pretzels. Place pretzels directly on rack in warm oven. Bake until warmed through, about 5 minutes.

6 Serve. Serve cabbage and sausages with pretzels and mustard. Enjoy!

Aries Joint ventures and other collaborations will be successful. It will be the perfect time to take your romantic relationship to the next level.

Taurus You will have to do some digging to get to the bottom of a personal dilemma. Don't assume to know what anyone else wants.

Gemini Minor problems at home will result in creative inspiration. You can make substantial improvements, but don't get too carried away.

Cancer Deal with small matters that seem to be constantly dragging you down. Once your schedule is clear, you will be able to find time for friends.

Leo Love and romance should be high on your agenda. Your appeal will bring favorable recognition and compliments. Make the most of your popularity.

Virgo Don't miss out, because your stress level is keeping you from enjoying your success. Material gains will be yours if you take advantage of a tip.

Libra Be a participant, not an observer. Put your networking skills into action whenever possible, and present what you have to offer.

Scorpio Someone you depend on will let you down. Don't blame yourself or be bitter; just be more cautious in the future.

Sagittarius You will be a magnet. Make the most of your popularity. New relationships will develop with people from diverse backgrounds.

Capricorn Business matters will be easier to handle than personal issues. Emotional turmoil will cloud your judgment.

Aquarius It's important to bolster your personal relationships. Strive to be a better partner, friend, colleague or confidant.

Pisces Keep your plans under wraps for now. Promises made to you will not be kept. A business or pleasure trip will bring unforeseen benefits. EUGENIA LAST

Cheap hack

There's no sense breaking the bank for seasonal decorations. The easiest way to upgrade your look for less? Spray paint. "You can transfer a cheap dollar store item into a beautiful decoration with the right spray-painted finish," says Tabone.

Halloween decor tricks and treats

Plastic spiders not for you? Keep things spooky-chic with these expert tips.

MONICA WEYMOUTH
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

Believe us when we say that we love a good over-the-top Halloween display. To the guy who turned his lawn into a zombie graveyard, we salute you. But let's say you want to acknowledge the holiday in a more subtle way. That can be tricky during the month of fake spiderwebs and cardboard tombstones, so we hit up the experts. Here are their best spooky-chic tips for the season.

Punch up your pumpkins

With all due respect to the classic jack-o'-lantern, perhaps it's time to give him a little makeover. Ruthie Tabone of Refashionably Late recommends dropping the carving knife and instead opting for a chic, neutral paint job. "I really love the black, white and gold combo right now," she says.

Think moody, not spooky

Product pick

Hosting a graveyard smash this year? We love these undead martini glasses from Pottery Barn. $26.50, Potterybarn.com

Who's up for a creepy cocktail? POTTERY BARN

You can channel the spirit of the season without the skulls and crossbones. "My favorite sophisticated way to nod at Halloween right now is to use large photos and artwork of moody, dark florals," says Julia Konya, a lifestyle and design blogger at Cuckoo4Design. "Or you could just create your own arrangement," she adds. "I'm really drawn to dark, mysterious creations that use lots of black, maroon and dark greens."

Go natural

As a general rule, if nature made it, it'll never look dated or tacky. "Pumpkins, acorns and dried hydrangeas add a nice touch of fall and Halloween indoors," says Linda Braden, the blogger behind It All Started With Paint. "I'm partial to the little pumpkins in white that I find at the grocery store; pepper them around the house on bookshelves and in wire baskets."

Flip the color story

There's nothing wrong with orange — but does it fit in with your year-round decor? If not, skip it. "This year, I'm into the idea of making Halloween work with the colors of my home," says Braden. "So I'm creating Halloween decorations that complement my navy and white decor. I'm drawn to white, burlap and jute."

Open City

The must-see architectural sites during New York's biggest urban design event.

RAQUEL LANERI
@RaquelLaneri
raquel.laneri@metro.us

On Saturday and Sunday, hundreds of the city's most guarded architectural gems — from private residences to historic landmarks — will unlock their doors as part of Open House New York. Now in its 17th year, OHNY is bigger than ever, with an unprecedented number of sites offering free tours across the five boroughs, providing a glimpse into the way design shapes, defines and propels life in the Big Apple. Don't know what to see? Here are our picks.

FOUR SEASONS RESTAURANT

CLAUDE SMITH

For once you won't need a reservation to enter the world's fanciest dining establishment. Marvel at the modernist design, shimmering chain curtains and famed Pool Room, site of many a debauched, sometimes skinny-dipping-involved, evening. (99 E. 52nd St. Open Saturday 12 p.m. to 4 p.m.)

NATIONAL ARTS CLUB

SHANNON NALLAN

This private clubhouse, overlooking tony Gramercy Park, not only boasts some incredible art- and museum-worthy period furniture; it also has one of New York City's most stunning — and secret — bars, with a dazzling 19th century stained glass ceiling. (15 Gramercy Park South. Open Saturday 12 p.m. to 4 p.m.)

TWA FLIGHT CENTER

NICOLAS LEMERY NANTÉL

Currently undergoing a restoration, this disused terminal remains a modernist, sleek tribute to the Jet Age, so visit it before it becomes an airport hotel and museum. (Terminal 5, JFK Airport. Open Sunday 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.)

SUNSET PARK MATERIAL RECOVERY FACILITY

BEN HELMER

See how this site processes the bulk of NYC's metal, glass and plastic recyclables, in spectacular, green fashion. The building, located on an 11-acre waterfront pier in Brooklyn's Sunset Park, isn't too shabby either, winning design awards and boasting some incredible views of the Manhattan skyline. (472 Second Ave., Brooklyn. Open Saturday 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.)

Plans for a new 241-unit resi building in Bed-Stuy

The area continues to heat up.

TheRealDeal.com is a daily blog and monthly magazine covering real estate in the New York metro area.

270 Nostrand Avenue will soon be a new residential building. PROVIDED

Sunset Park-based construction firm Park Developers and Builders is planning a new 241-unit residential building at 270 Nostrand Ave. in Bedford-

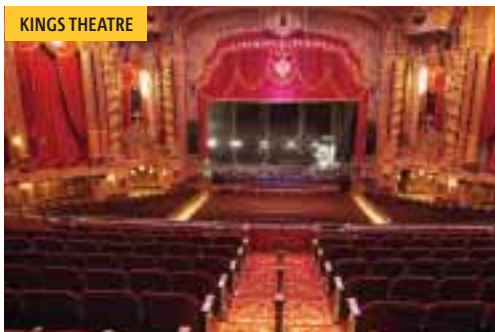

Stuyvesant, according to permit applications filed last week with the Department of Buildings.

The building would rise seven stories and span nearly 164,000 square feet, with frontage on Nostrand and DeKalb avenues and Kosciuszko Street, according to the filing.

REY MASHAYEKHI

KINGS THEATRE

BEN HELMER

This 1920s movie palace, inspired by Versailles, had been languishing in disrepair before undergoing an extensive restoration and reopening earlier this year. Ooh la la. (1027 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn. Open Sunday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.)

NEW YORK STATE PAVILION

BRENDAN CRAIN

Get up close and personal with Queens' quirkiest structure, built for the World's Fair and currently in the process of a restoration. A rare opportunity; expect long lines. (Flushing Meadows and Corona Park, Queens. Open Saturday and Sunday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.)

CITY HALL

ANDREW MOORE

One of the oldest City Halls in the nation, this 1812 building just went through its first renovation in 50 years. The glorious rotunda, with central oculus and "floating" marble staircase, is the main attraction, but visitors can peep the City Council Chamber and Governor's Room, too. (Entrance gate on the east side of Broadway at Murray St. Open Saturday 12 p.m. to 4 p.m.)

MARKET WATCH

Priciest

$40,250,000

432 Park Ave. #91A

The most expensive property to hit the market this week is a condo in Midtown, marketed by Douglas Elliman. Located in 432 Park Ave, the building soon to be known as the tallest residential tower in the Western Hemisphere once completed, this three-bedroom, 3½-bath unit features a library, eat-in kitchen with marble floors and countertops, master bedroom with walk-in closets and windowed master bath, and expansive windows that provide unobstructed Central Park views.

Cheapest

$225,000

2041 Fifth Ave. #6E

The least-expensive property to hit the market this week is a restricted sale co-op in Central Harlem, marketed by Corcoran. Located in a pre-war, pet-friendly, elevator building, the one bedroom unit is on the top floor and features hardwood floors, large windowed and tiled bath, and is convenient to dining, shopping and major subway lines. The building is a HDFC co-op with maximum income restrictions as follows: 2015 maximum income allowed for 1 person: $72,500, 2 people: $82,920, 3 people: $93,240.

Providing New Yorkers with Storage for over 15 years

NFL power rankings | by Luke MillerNo. 1*Patriots
(4-0)

This was New England's seventh straight win, dating back to last season. The Pats have had some luck this year, facing the Cowboys and Steelers without several stars, but they haven't taken their foot off the pedal.

No. 4*Cardinals
(4-1)

Arizona bounced back well from its first defeat of the season by dispatching the Lions in much the same blowout fashion they'd won their first three. Also encouraging: the return of Andre Ellington, who replaced Chris Johnson with the game well in hand and scored on a 63-yard touchdown run.

No. 6Falcons
(5-0)

So far this season we've all looked at Atlanta and said we believe in the offense, what about the defense? This was their week. With Julio Jones banged up, Matt Ryan throwing interceptions it was the defense that kept Washington at bay and, won the game on Robert Alford's overtime pick six.

No. 8Jets
(3-1)

If they can stay focused on the here and now against the Redskins this week, the Jets might be 4-1 heading into a Week 7 matchup in Foxborough. And though they may not have the firepower to overtake New England atop the AFC East, a Wild Card berth is a real possibility.

No. 10Vikings
(2-2)

The Vikings get two weeks to prepare for the Chiefs, but the first week might have to be thrown out after the news that Jamaal Charles has torn his ACL. This puts a damper on a potential exciting Adrian Peterson-Charles matchup at running back, but it does increase the chance the Vikings will see 3-2.

No. 2Packers
(5-0)

Aaron Rodgers' interception streak ended, but the real story Sunday was the Green Bay defense, which pressured Nick Foles into four interceptions. Stud quarterbacks and ball-hawking defenses are a pretty good combination come playoff time. Just ask the 2009 Saints.

No. 3Bengals
(5-0)

Maybe, this isn't our same old Bengals team. Through three quarters Sunday it looked that way, but give Cincinnati credit for refusing to fold and putting up a monster fourth quarter against the Seattle defense that had been bullying them all day.

No. 5Broncos
(5-0)

The defense is playing better than any in football, but at this rate questions about the offense are going to follow them throughout the season as Peyton Manning continues to, if not struggle, not look like Peyton Manning. And the running game is still close to nonexistent.

No. 7Panthers
(4-0)

East to west isn't an easy trip, but it's better than the alternative. The Seahawks have to be the favorite at home, don't they? Maybe not. So far this season, the Panthers have been the team showing the just win mentality that characterized Seattle teams of the past, but this is clearly their biggest test yet.

No. 9Steelers
(3-2)

It took all game, but when Mike Vick and the rest of the Steelers' offense clicked it was beautiful. An overtime loss to Baltimore because of missed field goals and a win in San Diego are a pretty good two weeks spent without starter Ben Roethlisberger.

No. 16Giants
(3-2)

If this is the Eli Manning the Giants are getting this season, they have to be the favorites in the NFC East, at least while the Cowboys recover. A nail-biting, last second win over the lowly 49ers isn't the most resounding victory, but it puts them in first place.

Rousey dating alleged UFC wife beater

Arguably the most famous female athlete in the world today, UFC star Ronda Rousey, announced this week that she is dating male UFC fighter, Travis Browne. Browne's estranged wife, fitness model Jenna Renee Webb, alleges that Browne abused her and posted pictures of bruises on her Instagram account on July 9.

Rousey did not address Browne and his wife's relationship this week but did confirm that she is, in fact, dating Browne.

"I don't talk about my personal life much. That's why it's called 'personal life,'" Rousey told ESPN. "It's true that Travis and I are in a relationship. I've really enjoyed the time we have spent together and getting to know one another. And that's all I'm going to say about it."

On the surface, Rousey's relationship with Browne seems hypocritical. Rousey has been ripping in to boxer Floyd "Money" Mayweather for months for his history of domestic violence.

MATT BURKE

Clayton Kershaw was tremendous in a 3-1 Dodgers win over the Mets.

MATTHEW BURKE
@burke_metro
matthew.burke@metro.us

Given all the twists and turns this NLDS between the Mets and Dodgers had already had before Game 4, it should have been obvious that this thing was going to a do-or-die Game 5. The two teams will do battle one more time Thursday (8:07 p.m., TBS) in Los Angeles with a berth in the NLCS against the championship-starved Cubs on the line. The Dodgers forced the deciding game by downing the Mets, 3-1, Tuesday night at Citi Field.

LA starter Clayton Kershaw was simply brilliant for the Dodgers, allowing just one earned run on three hits while striking out eight on 94 pitches. He never slowed down, striking out Lucas Duda, Wilmer Flores and Michael Cud-dyer in the fifth inning alone. The Dodgers got to Mets starter Steven Matz in the third inning as Adrian Gonzalez slapped a single to shallow center and got Enrique Hernandez across. Justin Turner would then power home Howie Kenrick and Gonzalez on a double to left. Los Angeles held a 3-0 lead heading to the fourth inning.

In the fourth, Daniel Murphy took Kershaw deep, igniting the Citi Field crowd. Unfortunately for the Mets, they could not build on that momentum as Yoenis Cespedes grounded out and Travis d'Arnaud struck out swinging to end the inning.

The Mets had their chances late. In the seventh, Kershaw could not pick up a little dribbler along the third base line and Cespedes was safe at first with no outs. But d'Arnaud fouled out, Duda flied out and Flores grounded out. In an extremely tense bottom of the eighth, Curtis Granderson and David Wright both reached via walks. Murphy got the count full against Kenley Jansen, but could only muster a fly out to right.
